

Focus on the Education and Training Committee

In the last years, ESAIC expanded its education offer and today provides to its members and community of anaesthesiologists and intensivists a wide range of online and face to face activities such as webinars, e-learning modules, podcasts, masterclasses, topic-focused blended events, etc.

Throughout the year, our community members are guided through a learning journey allowing them to improve technical and non-technical skills and discover new trends each month, focusing on hot topics, and get in touch with speakers and peers to enlarge their network.

In Glasgow, the Education and Training Committee showcases their investment in "Training the Trainers".

Teaching is a skill and like any other skill it must be learnt and practised. The ESAIC recognises that the quality of training depends to a large extent on trainers' experience and expertise, along with competence, aptitude, attitudes and abilities as good role models.

The role of teachers and trainers today extends beyond sharing and imparting information and includes also acting as mentors, facilitators, planners, developers and assessors.

From the experience of the "Teach The Teachers" course, our blended education masterclass dedicated to developing teaching skills, to the training through simulation and the use of new technologies in medical teaching, ESAIC keeps investing in training trainers to better promote high quality education and improve patient outcomes.

Focus on the Guidelines Committee

The ESAIC Guidelines Committee focuses on the elaboration of guidelines to be used by individual ESAIC members and adopted, with any desired modifications, by national societies for their own national use, if they so wish. By making European guidelines available, the ESAIC aims to harmonise clinical management and to improve standards of care in anaesthesiology, intensive care, perioperative medicine and related clinical areas across Europe.

Thanks to the dedicated work of the established task forces overseen by the Guidelines Committee, more than 15 ESAIC Guidelines have already been published.
